Welcome!

If you are interested in advertising your business in the directory, please contact us to find out about the very competitive advertising rates. You will always deal with us directly, like many of the businesses that advertise in this magazine, we are a small, independent family business and fully appreciate how much your business means to you.

Hopefully, the weather will warm up a little over the next couple of months and we'll all be able to take a walk in our beautiful countryside, along the canals, by the river and benefit from some spring sunshine.

Wishing you all a Happy Easter.

WHY DO I NEED A LASTING POWER OF ATTORNEY (LPA)?

If you lose mental capacity through illness (for example a stroke, dementia, or Alzheimer's disease), or an accident, and haven't created an LPA:

- You will no longer be able to choose who makes decisions and act for you (such as your spouse and children). You can only make your LPA while you still have mental capacity.
- A stranger appointed by the court such as a solicitor would end up making crucial decisions about you and your assets – where you will live, whether to accept medical treatment to keep you alive, what you eat and wear, and will control all your finances and your property.
- Your spouse, children or friends would have to apply to court to get permission to make decisions on your behalf and act for you – which is far more expensive and time-consuming than making an LPA and the court could refuse the application.

If you still have mental capacity, LPAs are a simple, inexpensive, and legally robust way of giving someone you trust the power to make decisions and act for you – either temporarily or long term should you lose capacity in the future.

To plan for this, you must create an LPA now whilst you still have mental capacity and so make things much easier for other people in your life.

Westminster Law are specialists in organising this.

Tredegar House Folk Festival

9th – 11th May 2025

The 34th Tredegar House Folk Festival will soon be here and this year the festival is again running a singer-songwriter competition (closing date end of January), where the winner gets a cash prize, a 3 hour recording session plus the chance to perform their song at the festival. Judging is by an independent panel of significant industry figures. Mair Thomas - the winner of the first competition, is now a regular on BBC radio and has twice appeared at the Llangollen International Eisteddfod. We are pleased to welcome her back to the festival this year.

As well as the big Friday concert (held in the concert marquee) featuring 4 top acts, there will be a free twmpath in the Dawnsio.Cymru marquee run by Menter Iaith Newport (a principality-wide organisation supporting and promoting the Welsh language). It will be conducted in Welsh, but that shouldn't stop anyone joining in with the dancing, as plenty of fun will be had.

Meanwhile in the Marcus Music marquee there will be the Friday Night Big Bash, a night of great tunes, many instruments and lots of joining in. Bring your instrument along or just come and listen, in what promises to be a special intimate atmosphere.

Moving on to Saturday and Sunday afternoons where both marquees showcase free dance displays featuring local and national sides, including India Dance Wales, Morris dancing, Middle Eastern, Welsh, Flamenco, Appalachian and more to be confirmed.

Saturday evening the concert has 4 acts kicking off with Avanc, a fantastic group of a dozen young Welsh musicians that really raises the roof. For dancers, there is the traditional Saturday ceilidh featuring Juice with caller Ned Clamp.

Sunday late afternoon brings the huge 5 act concert. There are too many acts appearing at the festival to name, so please keep checking the website www.tredegarhousefestival.org.uk and our Facebook page for details of all music and dance acts, including musical clips (website).

Workshops, singarounds, folk club sessions and dance displays all have free entry, plus on site there is a CAMRA bar, food outlets, children's entertainer and a farmers market.

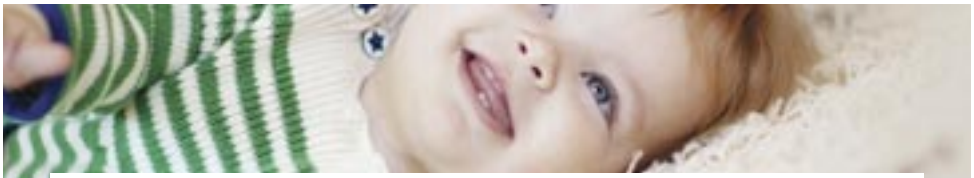

People buying weekend tickets or tickets to any of the 3 concerts or Saturday ceilidh, get the added bonus of free entry to Tredegar House.

Thanks must go to the Arts Council of Wales and Ty Cerdd for their continuing financial support, without which the festival could not have survived for so long.

Fingers crossed for good weather!

Time flies

I remember reading once why time passes more quickly as you get older, the reason is now long forgotten but its certainly true that time flies. Spring is now in the air and all that that heralds, longer days, flowers blooming and trees blossoming.

Our programme for 2025 got off to a splendid start with our annual quiz, nothing too strenuous for our little grey cells but note to self here I must gen up on flags for next year's quiz as the question master loves them. Also, in January a talk on cyber security. The latter could not be more important in this day and age, we have had similar talks previously, but the 'tech' world is changing so rapidly that we must all be aware of the pitfalls that lead us to be scammed or unexpected emails that spread viruses across our gadgets. The one golden rule, I suppose, is never give out your bank details to anyone who phones, emails or texts, make sure your passwords are strong and basically if you're unsure simply delete the message or put the phone down.

These evenings were followed by a talk from a team member of Women's Aid, as this is our chosen charity for this year it is important that we appreciate exactly what the money we raise will do. Cyfannol Women's Aid supports people across Gwent who have experienced any form of violence, domestic or sexual abuse. They provide a confidential drop-in service for people in crisis or in need of support, refuge accommodation for anyone escaping any form of violence against women, ongoing community-based, housing-related support for people who are experiencing, or have recently experienced, domestic abuse. Plus, a range of one to one, and group-based support options for children, who have experienced domestic or sexual violence. For those of us who are lucky enough to be part of loving families, this abuse is abhorrent but sadly more common than one would think.

Having had two serious talks to digest and ponder our next meeting was much lighter, yoga, and in deference to the seniors in our group it was exceptionally gentle, relaxing and enjoyable.

To finish our February meetings, we had something quite different, a talk, but it was about walks around Newport. Our speaker walks our city with eyes that scan many interesting features and landmarks, most of which I suspect we would pass without noticing, not anymore!

If you feel that any of these sessions might interest you, why don't you come along for a taster, there is plenty more in the programme. We meet at St John the Baptist Church Hall, Bryngwyn Road, near the Handpost on the second and fourth Tuesday of every month. Members arrive at about 7.15pm for refreshments and the meeting starts at 7.30pm.

The Twmps / Y Twmp

Developing a nature conservation area on land situated behind the Army Barracks in Allt-Yr-Yn. (What3words: Chops.Dairy.Case)

A small team of local volunteers have been the custodians of a large area of semi-natural landscape located between the Army Barracks, Sorrel Drive, Allt-Yr-Yn Tennis Club and the Harlequin estate. This area is known locally as 'The Twmps'.
The land is a site of importance for nature conservation (SINC) for its large, semi-improved wet and dry natural grassland, scrub and woodland. Historically the site has been negatively impacted by fly-tipping activities and the highly invasive Japanese knotweed. Tackling these issues has been vital for securing its long-term future by recongnising and restoring the ecological potential of the site.
Local volunteers working in partnership with Newport City Council/Cyngor Dinas Casnewydd seek to improve the site through a co-ordinated programme of restoration works. This has included fly-tipping removal plus management work to control dominant species. The Council organises the spraying of the invasive Japanese Knotweed each year.
Through a series of funded interventions by Buglife between 2021 & 2023 the group has made progress towards increasing biodiversity on site.
Since summer 2024 we have teamed up with Gwent Wildlife Trust to offer monthly sessions – where volunteers gain practical experience in habitat management techniques.
The Twmps Nature Restoration Group/Grwp Adfer Natur Y Twmp team have an audit of the fauna and flora on site – we document and catalogue our observations through photography. We have recorded 548 forms of insects and spiders, 46 species of birds, 50 plus flower species, dozens of non-flowering species, a few amphibians and a cluster of mammals including bats.
This year we will protect the existing mosaic of habitats, such as the grassland which supports members of the grasshopper family plus several solitary and uncommon mining bees. The site has myriads of butterflies, wasps and spiders species.
The group has had Art and Photography exhibitions (2021 – 2025) across the city. The Cwtsh Gallery (near the Handpost) have often curated photographs of the beauty and diversity of life found at the Twmps.
Photos last year were displayed, in the annual Newport 'Art on the Hill/Cleft ar y Bryn' festival', at St Mark's Church. This year an exhibition will promote the site with an event with the American photographer, John Briggs.
The photographic work aids our identification programme as well linking the place to songs, music, water-colour paintings and poetry. A book of poems, songs and word-text is currently being prepared for launch at the end of year.
The group is very keen raise awareness of this hidden gem with the local community - we'd like to encourage people to visit and explore the space with wonderful views of the Newport skyline and the Severn estuary beyond.

If you would like to join us, (No prior experience necessary), please contact us by email or join our 'Allt-Yr-Yn and Barrackswood Nature Group' on Facebook where you can share your nature sightings.

A Very Naughty Boy

by Paul Minton

Do you like the movie, Bonnie and Clyde? Are you a fan of Clint Eastwood's Escape from Alcatraz? If the answer is yes, then let me introduce you to Francis Henry Simmonds, whose life contained elements of both films albeit with a Welsh twist.

Francis was likely born in Birmingham around 1886. He was described as a debonaire character, who could mix easily with the higher echelons of society but make no mistake, he had wanton criminality coursing through his veins. One early report of his apparent misdeeds came from Brecon Assizes in January 1907. At 20 years of age but looking younger, the 'very respectably dressed' defendant was given six weeks' hard labour for stealing two tame rabbits, one pair of leggings and a knife from Llanelly near Gilwern. He was also charged with taking £1 in Cardiff and was wanted over another theft in Hereford.

Whilst incarcerated in Gloucester Gaol in 1908, Simmonds plotted to liberate the other prisoners and escape, with some reports suggesting he got as far as locking the Governor in a cell. However, the scheme unravelled when one of the convicts gave 'the show away'. After his release from another stint, this time at Worcester Prison, the crook arranged 'to do a big job' in Cardiff. It was there, in March 1912, that he met a local beauty. The daughter of a wealthy businessman, she had had an excellent upbringing, having been educated at Dover and Wisbaden, Germany. At the time, she was married to a photographer but growing weary of matrimony, she eloped with Simmonds; they lived as husband and wife during the weeks that followed at various locations across Monmouthshire, including Newport.

It was his theft of a horse and cart that undid their happy cohabiting. Detective Inspector William

Detective Inspective William Tanner

Divisional Inspector Samuel Cox

Tanner and Inspector Samuel Cox tracked him down to a property in Stafford Street, St Julians later that spring. As they burst in, Simmonds drew a gun and shot at the officers. Tanner leapt towards his quarry and in the struggle, the revolver discharged once more, the bullet penetrating the loose part of the DI's raincoat. The woman defended her paramour by attempting to push hatpins into the necks of the policemen but eventually, the law triumphed and the two lovers were arrested. At Monmouthshire Assizes, Simmonds was sentenced to six years at Usk Prison and his partner to six months.

During his subsequent imprisonment, Simmonds studied his jailors' schedule carefully and deduced there would be minimal staffing on a particular Sunday. He hoped to incapacitate a guard by using a loosened table leg, retrieve his victim's keys to free his fellow convicts, and then murder the Governor. To share his intentions with his co-conspirators, he made an ink well from wax used in the manufacture of mailbags and wrote messages on pages torn from library books. These notes were exchanged during hymn singing in the prison chapel. However, one offender disapproved of the plan and revealed the plot to the authorities. As punishment, Simmonds received 15 lashes and was transferred to Dartmoor's Princetown Gaol.

After serving his time, Simmonds joined the army and was stationed for a while near Chepstow, where he was telephone operator. During his posting, he visited DI Tanner in Newport. When he had last seen the policeman, he had threatened revenge, but their reunion was ultimately cordial with Simmonds seeking forgiveness.

It would appear, however, that his life of crime was never fully abandoned. In 1923, he was killed by a firing squad in Egypt for an undisclosed yet presumably very serious offence. Simmonds is said to have walked to his execution without showing any emotion but it carried no weight with the newspapers of the day, which concluded that 'the world is well rid of such a man'.

Tenby in the Spring

Tenby is perfect for both young and old and there is something for everyone to enjoy all year round.

For a true Tenby experience visit the small friendly harbour, where you can enjoy a spot of fishing, take a boat trip out to the nearby beautiful and tranquil Caldey Island, relax and unwind on the fantastic beaches or simply sit and people watch.

The three beaches are all dog-friendly until the end of April and there's no shortage of good restaurants, cafes and pubs.

With the pastel coloured buildings as your backdrop and the sea ahead, this picturesque seaside town is the perfect place to visit and enjoy early spring walks.

A TAX-EFFICIENT, FLEXIBLE METHOD FOR FUTURE PLANNING

One of the most attractive features of an ISA is its tax benefits – it's immune to both Income Tax and Capital Gains Tax on any growth within the fund or on income you withdraw. This makes contributing to an ISA an intelligent decision for those looking to grow their wealth while minimising tax liabilities.

DON'T LOSE YOUR ISA ALLOWANCE

You can save up to £20,000 every tax-year from 6 April to 5 April the following year, into adult ISAs. Before April 2024, you couldn't open two ISAs of the same type in a tax year, but now you can open as many ISAs of the same type as you like, as long as you don't pay in more than the total ISA limit.

ISA OPTIONS

Cash ISAs are simple, tax-free savings accounts, much like those you might find at a bank or building society. You generally have the choice between a variable or fixed interest rate and any interest you earn is free from taxation, allowing every penny to stay working for you.

Stocks & Shares ISAs involve investing your contributions in the stock market rather than keeping them as cash. Some ISAs allow you to decide where your investments go, while others are invested in managed funds on your behalf. The exemption from Income Tax, Dividend Tax and Capital Gains Tax is a key reason why ISAs are a go to option for investors looking to grow their wealth.

Lifetime ISA (LISAs) are a type of ISA where the government gives you a bonus of 25%. While you can save a total of £20,000 annually in any ISA account or combination of ISA products, you can only pay into one Lifetime ISA in a tax year. The maximum you can contribute is £4,000 (which will leave you free to invest £16,000 in any other ISA product that financial year). These are aimed at assisting young adults aged 18 to 39 in saving for their first home or retirement and contributions can continue up to age 50.

Innovative Finance ISAs enables you to allocate your tax-efficient ISA allowance towards peer-to-peer (P2P) lending. In this arrangement, your funds are loaned to individuals or businesses via a lending platform, and the interest paid by the borrower constitutes your return on investment. However, while higher interest rates are appealing, weighing the risks is essential, as returns aren't guaranteed and must be approached carefully.

Junior ISA (JISA) is another option for parents wishing to secure their children's financial future. However, it's important to note that contributions to a Junior ISA won't affect your personal ISA allowance. A Cash or Stocks & Shares ISA account, or both, can be opened for a child subject to the annual Junior ISA (JISA) allowance which is currently £9,000.

READY TO MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR ISA ALLOWANCE BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE?

Whether you're just starting out or are a seasoned investor, ISAs remain one of the most powerful tools for growing and protecting your wealth. Newport u3a

Newport u3a has over 40 active, leisure and cultural groups for the retired and next month will see the introduction of yet another - Whist.
The friendly group will meet three times a month and the experienced players will be glad to help any novices. Whist's combination of luck, strategy and surprise, exercises the brain in a sociable way. Concentration on the fall of the cards is a useful exercise for the memory and also helps Bridge players to develop their trick-taking skills.

u3a learn, laugh, live

Newport u3a meets at the Dolman Theatre Wednesday to Friday at 9.45-15.00 during term time. LEARN, LAUGH, LIVE is our motto so if you would like more of that in your retirement come and try us out for two weeks. For more details contact Angela Robins on 07983 130541, or visit www.newportu3asites.uk

Hardy Plant Society, Monmouthshire

Our group meets every second Saturday of the month between September and May at 2.30pm in Little Mill Village Hall, Little Mill, Usk NP4 0HE. There is ample free parking. Refreshments are available and non-members will be made very welcome. During the summer months, we have many garden visits and other related activities.
Our regular programme of talks at Little Mill Village Hall continues on Saturday 8th March, Robin Pearce will talk on 'Ornamental Grasses'. Robin ran a wholesale and retail nursery for 20 years and has now retired to spend more time in his garden. Ornamental grasses are a special interest, as are rare and unusual plants. Ferns too!

The Annual General Meeting of the Monmouthshire Branch of the Hardy Plant Society, held via Zoom, will be on 12th March. The wonderfully knowledgeable Derry Watkins of the renowned Special Plants nursery at Cold Ashton, near Bath will be with us on 12th April to talk about the 'Humble Umbel'. Not to be missed. Derry describes herself as a 'plant freak American with a gorgeous, thriving garden designed by her architect husband, Peter Clegg'.
Saturday 26th April Kelly Weare, a professional gardener based in Monmouthshire and a member of the HPS Monmouthshire branch, will be holding a Practical Workshop. More details to follow.

Belle Vue
Park & Tea Room

WHAT'S ON IN MARCH AND APRIL

March

March 2nd 11.00am – 4.00pm
We cannot wait to welcome you to the first Belle Vue market of 2025. Packed full of goodies from new and existing traders, we look forward to seeing you there. This year once again, our charity is Sparkle and to date your generous contributions have realised over £2k. Those small donations as an entry we collect, do make a difference.

March 16th Guess what!
Because our partners in the National Trust havent yet sorted out their annual calendar (as at print deadline), we have chosen to hold two markets per month for the early part of the year. 11.00am – 4.00pm will see a second lovely market in Belle Vue with plenty of new faces and an opportunity to buy those artisan goodies and gifts.

March 30th Is Mother's Day.
Don't forget to book a special treat for Mum! We have special goodies added to our afternoon teas this year. A little fizz will also make the day that bit more enjoyable. You can book via phoning Jan on 07737 630657 or email jan@bellevuetearoom.uk We have suspended our online bookings for the whole weekend. Teas are £22.50 per person and we can guarantee you a tasty and enjoyable afternoon.

April

April 6th 11.00am – 4.00pm
Once again our market will be packed with goodies and new traders.

April 19th 7.30pm – 9.30pm
Our partners, Momo Events will be joining us for our first outdoor cinema night for a long time… Too long we think so come along and get Dirty Dancing… Watch this classic to get you in the mood for the release of the new version later this year… I can't believe it will be as great as this one! Film will show at 8.15pm but in the meantime we will offer a bar and hot food alongside the Café being open for soft drinks.

April 20th 11.00am – 4.00pm.
Our second special market combining an Easter theme with our usual plant sale at this time of the year. Come and get your bedding plants and garden items alongside those Easter gifts and goodies. Come along to talk anything plants and gardens.

Look out for information on our Sunday Summer Siesta sessions which will replace the Streetfood Fridays we hosted over the past few years. We hope, however that you will enjoy the same colourful experiences which we hope to start at the earlier time of 3pm and finish around 7pm. Bar and hot food will definitely feature. We are now planning the itinerary.

Look out for more information on our notice boards and Facebook/Instagram @Bellevuetearooms and on our website www.bellevuetearoom.uk. Alternatively text or phone Jan on 07737 630657.

Swan RESCUE

'...trouble at 't mill'

No! Not that mill!

Swan Rescue South Wales has had a long association with the two small lakes which we refer to as Mathern Mill which is, as far as we know; a well run fishery a short distance off the A48 at Pwllmeyric near Chepstow. In the early days we were accustomed to fairly frequent calls to attend to swans which had picked up lost or discarded fishing tackle. With the passing of time, this problem became much less frequent.

In situations where power lines cross a flight path there is always a risk of collision between a flying swan(s) and these lines. Usually, the result is a very serious injury or worse, a fatality. The use of 'flight diverters' fitted typically to 11kV power lines and so making them more visible to birds in flight has been shown to work well. Photo 1 illustrates the fitting of such devices to power lines at Mathern. Appropriately qualified staff are able to do this without shutting off the power.

The severity of recent storms – one in particular, Darragh, had the effect of ripping the vital mobile suspended components off all but one of the diverters at Mathern rendering them effectively useless. The result was that, in quite quick succession, two juvenile swans perished to be followed by a very close call for two adults. The adult male (cob) managed to fly on and land safely. In front of the notice board shown on Photo 2 is a patch of very wet ground, underlain by soft mud onto which the female (pen) fell. There was a fear impact with live conductors had resulted in scorching, but fortunately this turned out not to be true, but even so, it was clear the experience had shaken up the bird rather badly; unlike most swans, it is not usual to refuse food when it is offered! At the time of our visit, of some necessity a few hours later, she was still resting quietly on the bank on her own but moved slowly onto the water as we approached.

There is an extent to which the saying; 'Time is a great healer' is true. Having stayed around for about an hour, both birds were fairly close to each other and grazing and by the time of a follow-up visit a few days later, it would be impossible to tell anything untoward had happened. (Photo 3).

In the meantime contact was made with National Grid, which organisation has recently taken over Western Power Distribution who, for very many years have been very quick off the mark in supplying and fitting diverters on spans of power lines which have demonstrably been problematical in terms of bird strikes. Just as under the previous regime, National Grid have been very quick off the mark, especially given the recent combination of problems caused by the spate of storms we have had to endure recently. Great credit is due to them, as indeed to the staff involved in the previous organisation for the speed and effectiveness with which they have reacted whenever the need has arisen.

Afon Col-huw

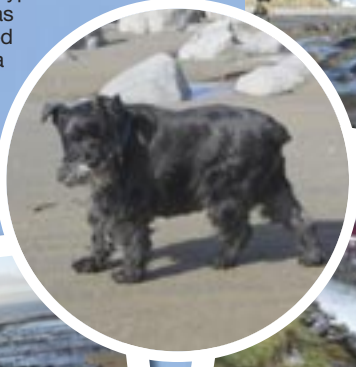

Afon Col-huw is a very short river in the Vale of Glamorgan. It is only one mile long, formed when two rivers, the Ogney Brook and the Hoddnant converge south of Llantwit Major.

The river meets the sea at Col-huw Point, where Llantwit Major beach is situated. At its mouth the river flows through the sand and stones of Llantwit beach, the mouth of the river was originally sandy, but dredging in the Bristol Channel and thus degradation of the Nash Bank, has resulted in less sand around the estuary.

Popular with families and surfers alike, Cwm Col-huw beach is packed with all the facilities you need for a family day out. There are toilets, a cafe and free parking. Dogs are allowed on the beach from the 1st November to the end of April.

As well as being full of great features typical of the Glamorgan Heritage Coast such as rock-pools, a sandy beach and rugged cliffs, Cwm Col-huw is also home to a number of rare and beautiful species, including the Small Blue Butterfly, Britain's smallest resident butterfly. Wildlife can also be spotted at the Cwm Col-huw Nature Reserve which runs along the cliff tops to the west and back towards the town.

Twmbarlwm ~ A Place For Memories?

The flowers may be biodegradeable but the frames on which they are built are metal or plastic which pollutes the landscape until they are removed.

On our monthly litter-pick yesterday I was asked about our policy regarding removing memorials that people have deposited on the mountain to commemorate their loved ones.

My answer was simple – we use a bit of common sense and try to be a little sympathetic to people's reasons for placing mementoes of their loved ones around our precious landscape. If it's material that looks unsightly and has obviously been there a long time – or if it is stuff that is likely to harm the environment, wildlife and livestock – then we will collect and dispose of it.

To bury or fix any items or materials into the hill-fort itself is, in fact, illegal because of its scheduled monument status and we will therefore remove it immediately (you should check out Cadw's guidelines on this topic).

But why do people do this? As we navigate the delicate journey of grief, many seek to honour the memories of loved ones in meaningful ways. For those who cherish Twmbarlwm and the British countryside in general, the thought of marking a favourite spot with a memorial of some sort or scattering cremated ashes can be a deeply soothing and personal act.

However, it's vital to know both the legalities and ethical considerations surrounding this practice, particularly when those we honour are passionate about the environment and landscape in which you are marking their memory.

Practically every square inch of the UK is owned by someone and to scatter ashes on private land requires the landowner's permission. It's always worth researching local guidelines, as some areas may have specific regulations – check with relevant authorities to ensure compliance and avoid unnecessary distress during this sensitive time.

Helium filled balloons may create a memorable moment for those involved but they create environmental havoc to wildlife and livestock for many miles around.

Assuming you have complied with all legalities, it's understandable to want to mark the occasion with tangible tokens of remembrance, such as plastic flowers, plaques, or other non-biodegradable items. However, in eco-sensitive areas such as Twmbarlwm, these tokens can become environmental and unsightly hazards. Wildlife and livestock may swallow small objects, and plastics can linger in the landscape for many years.

Consider biodegradable alternatives that will lend a sense of continuity and harmony with the landscape. For example wildflower seeds could be scattered, to provide a living tribute that enhances the surrounding environment and bring joy for years to come. Similarly, wooden or stone markers can be a beautiful, environmentally respectful way to commemorate your loved one's life – again the landowners permission will be required.

If you must honour the memory of your loved one in such a public location please allow their passion for the environment and locality to guide your choices. In doing so, you not only pay homage to their life but also protect the very landscapes that they cherished.

In the same way that CTS considers what is acceptable on our precious mountain, use your common sense and think about the reaction of visitors to the site – visitors who are here to experience the splendour of the views and landscape and to not feel that they are disturbing a private mausoleum to dearly departed souls.

TERRY EVANS (Chairman CTS

Cymdeithas Twmbarlwm Society meet at the car park below Twmbarlwm's summit for a litter pick and volunteer workday on the last Sunday of every month to which everyone is invited, it's not all hard work and it's a great opportunity to find your way around up there. We organise walks and other events throughout the year so watch our website and Facebook page for details.
